THE FORGOTTEN GRAVE.

Out from the city's rush and roar,
You wandered through the open door;
Paused at a plaything pail and spade
Across a tiny hillock laid;
Then noted on your dexter side
Some moneyed mourner's "love or pride;"
And so, beyond a hawthorn tree,
Showering its rain of rosy bloom
Alike on low and lofty tomb,
You come upon it—suddenly.

How strange! The very grasses' growth
Around it seemed forlorn and loath;
The very ivy seemed to turn
Askance that wreathed the neighbor urn.
The slab had sunk, the head declined,
And left the rails a wreck behind.
No name; you traced a "6," a "7,"
Part of "affliction" and of "Heaven;"
And then in letters sharp and clear,
You read, oh, irony austere!
"Tho' lost to sight, to memory dear."
—Austin Dobson.

FOR YELLOW GOLD.

When the stage "went light" they ran out the small buckboard, but when there were more than four passengers the big mud wagon was "put on." This was a buckboard day, for there was not a single passenger. What was more to the point, as the Gold Butte Mining company regarded it, was that under the driver's seat was a box with $10,000 in the newest of new tens and twenties in it.

The driver had looked very blue when he drove his four mustangs from the postoffice—where he took on a very flat leather bag, which spoke loudly of the incapacity or disinclination of the Thimble Spring people for letter writing—over to the railroad station, where he was to take on the box. Things were going all wrong at home. That was why his brown face looked so haggard; that is why he held so loosely to the "lines;" that was why he chewed so hard on the bit of "plug" in his mouth.

"Such hard scratchin I never seed afore," was what he had said as he had listlessly thrown the mailbag into the wagon; "can't git no decent job nowadays. Nothin ter be had by prospectin—tried thet time an agin; ef I git anything it peters out inside of a week. I might make a strike over ter Sand Gulch, but it's a derned long way off, an me 'n Sue an the kids hez moved so often 'at we can't raise nothin ter move on now. Why in Sam Hill did Sue hev ter git that rheumatiz jes' now, when we's so hard up, an afore she weaned the baby? It's a damned shame. Why can't Bill git somethin ter do?—great, big, lunkheaded cuss. Ef I hed a brother, poorer'n a crow, d'ye think I'd go an live on him, an live on him, till thar warn't nuthin ter eat in the house? Sho, Zach Springer, you're a blamed fool. Bill hain't done that. He ain't ter blame fer gettin his leg broke that time. Bill's all right, but he's onlucky. Been tryin fur a month ter git a job, and can't git it nowhere. He's willin ter work. He'd stan crotch deep in the creek washin out tailin's ef he could make his salt at it. Tried it fer six weeks an didn't git enough to buy a pair of gum boots. Whoa, Buckskin! D——n that one eyed crowbait! he'd jam right inter the station platform ef yer didn't saw his teeth eout."

And then the box was taken on, and the express agent had something to say. That "something" was not to Zach Springer's liking. He chewed harder than ever on the bit of plug, and sawed the hard mouths of the mustangs by an unnecessary yanking of the reins. It was a positive relief to be able at last to whack his lash down upon the sides of the nervous brutes and turn them loose for the forty mile run to Gold Butte. Why had he needed a lecture from a hireling of the express company, and why should that smooth jawed agent have looked at him with such dark suspicion?

"They think 'cos I got stood up down ter Black Rocks las' time I had a big load o' gold thet I need to be preached to every time I go out now with a full box. Damned stoop shouldered, desk settin hounds! I'd like ter see one on 'em handlin the ribbons when thar's a Winchester lookin at 'em with an eye as big as a bar'l head. Can't tell me they wouldn't give in. The sweet scented, calfskin booted young ladies! Thar ain't a man among 'em."

Zach Springer's indignation was now in more complete possession of him than had been his feeling of blueness a little earlier. What he had delivered himself of just now was not what he would have said had he voiced his true sentiments with reference to the express agent's lecture. In between the words ran the thought that "they" had suspected him of having a hand in the Black Rocks robbery. It had come to him before in what he called a "left handed" way, and he had had other outbursts of righteous indignation, but none in which the upheaval was so great as that of the present. Had that been the reason the stage company had cut down his pay to "sixty" a month? The chances were that it was. It was too blamed mean for a lot of swine like these people to come it so high handedly over a poor man who only wanted his own. Wouldn't it serve them just right if——

The white dust of the desert rolled up from the mustangs' hoofs in little puffs, and sprays of it, powdery fine, followed the turn of the wheels half way up, there to be caught by the breeze and drifted behind in a long cloud that followed the buckboard like a haunting spirit. Sometimes, as the light breeze shifted, it came back upon the buckboard and its driver like heavy thoughts on the conscience of a guilty man.

It would serve them just right! Besides that, only think—ten thousand! What would the people down in Mexico or Guatemala, where he would fly, know or care if somebody up in far off Nevada had dumped a box off his buckboard and gone back and got it after a few days—maybe a week? It would have to be a dark night, wouldn't it? You couldn't go and get a box like that in the daytime and take it anywhere, for the whole country would be out looking for the man who had it. Maybe a month. That would be better. It would all blow over by that time. Let's see, would it? Ten thousand was a good deal. Those stage stoppers were always striking the box on the wrong day. They never got so much as that at one haul. In two months, then—perhaps two months. But it would have to be well hidden.

And the thought stuck to him, despite all attempts to keep it off, though by the time he had driven the mustangs into Red canyon his indignation at having been suspected by the company had died down. The box at his feet had taken on a new meaning for him. It meant smart gowns for the wife. It meant a good schooling for the children. Those five little ones had had a hard "rustle" of it to get what few scraps of learning they had thus far managed to clutch; and as for clothes, they were dressed like juvenile scarecrows. Yes, all the hard scratching would be over if he dared to do what many another hard pushed man had done. Resolving the whole matter down to a plain, clear cut proposition, it was after all simply a question of "nerve."

Here was the place to do it. Right here, where the high, scraggly rocks, with the patches of sagebrush atop, came so near to the buckboard. It could be thrown over there, anywhere, into the sagebrush. It would be as well concealed as though buried in six feet of earth. The buckboard had reached the top of a long down grade. Zach put on the brake, and twisted the reins about the brake handle. As if about to take a plunge into ice cold water, he reached down for the box. But wait a bit. He took off his big sombrero and hung it on a projecting rock. Then flashing out his six shooter he sent a bullet through the brim of the hat, which he then replaced on his head.

Though it had been hot enough when he started out from Thimble Spring, there seemed to be a chill in the air just now. Would they believe the story that he would have to concoct, even though he showed them the hole in the hat brim? What would he care whether they did or not! They already suspected him. If he had the name he might as well have the game. He looked at a spot where the sagebrush clustered thickest and made a mental throw or two in a tentative way, in order to "get the distance."

Then he laid two nervous hands on the box. He gave a little tug. Lord, how heavy it was! Could it be tossed over there after all? It might have to be carried. He lifted it upon the seat. "Via Thimble Spring Stage Line." What was the sense in putting on such a direction as that? It was the only way it could go. The only way. And that way was now closed, for he was about to——

"God! kain't they trust you—you, Zach Springer? Kain't they trust Old Zach?" he burst out hoarsely. "Yes, but why don't they do as any other decent minin comp'ny does—turn their stuff into the bank at 'Frisco arter it's minted? What in hell do they want on it up thar?"

Well, after all, that was their business. But he couldn't be trusted. What would Bill say? Bill was an honest man. He would blush with shame every time his brother's name was mentioned after that, for of course he would know. Sue would never suspect. Any kind of a story would bamboozle her. Bill was smart. He could put two and two together as quickly as any man in the country. And yet Bill himself was a little reckless sometimes. He had been acting very queer of late, and had been over to Johnson's a good deal, drinking and playing cards with the boys. That would not do. Bill must be looked after.

He was only a young fellow—a mere boy, even if he had been trying to raise a mustache lately. Yes, Bill was a good deal younger than he. Why, he remembered well the day he was born, when they took him in to show him his new baby brother. He used to carry Bill all around, and he was the first one to stand him on his legs and try to make him walk. He remembered how he used to hurt his own head when Bill got a knock by falling out of his high chair. Bill was just as much to him now as ever, and those knocks which fate and the weaknesses of his nature were giving him now hurt him just as badly—worse perhaps than they did Brother Bill.

What would Bill say?

He laid his hands upon the box again. It would be safe enough behind the rocks there under the sagebrush—as safe as if——

"Git up thar, d—n ye! Git, Buckskin! Git, old Gabe! Ye lazy critters. G'lang!" And down came the long lash upon the dust covered backs of the mustangs, and off down the long grade they ran, making the dust fly in the canyon as it never flew before. For Zach had grasped the reins in a grip of iron, and both his big cowhide boots were planted firmly on the box.

"This 'er is what I call goin helly-split!" he said, ten minutes later, as they were still flying down the grade. "But I lost some time with a blamed fool notion that I orter a-ben licked for ever thinkin on a minit. Wal, the mustangs got a good rest. Makin up fer it now, though. They'll soon be in a lather. I'll git to the half way house in quarter of an hour, and then I'll take a good horn. I feel kinder nervous yit. Thet 'ere box is a durned heavy load on a man's mind. I s'pose the sup'rin tendent up to Gold Butte is worryin about it too. Never mind, ol' feller, you'll see that stuff stowed away in yer safe afore sundown.

"What's this? A hold up, sure as shootin!"

Out from behind a tall rock a man with a piece of dark calico over his face and a very large Winchester in his hand, had suddenly sprung, and the muzzle of the rifle looked right into Zach's big, round eyes. The brake scraped the wheels and made the sparks fly. The mustangs came to a sudden stand. There was no getting by that Winchester.

"I reckon you've got the drop on me, stranger," the driver coolly made remark. "Stick up my hands? In course I will, ef you insist on it, but I tell yer these 'ere mustangs is mighty skittish, an it's on the down grade. So yer needn't shoot if they start up, fur it'll be your own fault. I s'pose yer arter this 'ere box? Throw it out? It's too blamed heavy fer that. Ye'll hev ter give us a lift."

The man with the gun had said nothing; but the subtleties of the holding up process were not so fine but that Zach understood every wave of the stranger's hand and every shrug of his shoulders, when the waves and shrugs meant anything. Zach had been held up before. He of the calico mask did not step forward at once. In this suggestion that he should assist in taking off the box he seemed to suspect some trick. But one of Zach's hands was held aloft and the other, with the four reins in it, was on the level of his shoulder. The man edged up to the buckboard, exchanging the weapon which he presented at Zach's head for a six-shot revolver.

"Thanks, stranger," said Zach, with forced merriment. "I never like to hev one o' them air long barreled things p'inted at me. They shoot too durn straight. Now, here ye are."

With his foot he shoved the box along until it was near the edge of the wagon.

"Thar it is, help yourself; but ye'll find it a blamed heavy load ter pack, ef yer goin far—over forty pounds."

The robber's fingers grasped the box nervously.

"A green un at the biz," thought Zach. "Mebbe thar'll be an openin here yit."

The robber pulled and hauled at the box, but it would not budge, for it was caught on a nailhead in the bottom of the wagon. In his feverish anxiety to secure the gold, he lowered the revolver a little and grasped the box with both hands. Swiftly Zach's right hand fell to his hip and out he whipped his bright barreled pistol.

"Got the dead drop, stranger! It's no go!" he shouted. "Put that weepin daown, you fool!" for the man was raising his pistol. "You won't? Then take that."

A flash, a report, and back fell the robber without a moan. His fingers clawed the dust for a moment, as if he were grasping for a hold on life. But the hold was not to be had, and he gave it up, and lay there quietly in the dust.

The driver shoved his pistol into its holster, and wiped the sweat from his brow. It has been a close shave for the box and a closer shave for him.

"Takes a purty keen un ter git erway with Ol' Zach arter all," he chuckled, springing lightly from the buckboard, while a broad smile lit up his brown face. "This 'ere means a big raise from the stage comp'ny an a hundred or two from the Gold Butte folks. I guess they'll think the ol' man's 'bout right arter this. Hooray fur hooray! my stock's riz! It's 'way up ter a hundred an fifty. Whoop-e-e! Haw haw-haw!"

He stooped down over the dead man and lifted the bit of cloth from his face.

"Almighty God! It's Bill!"—Frank Bailey Millard in Argonaut.

A Dinner Taster.

Perhaps the most curious occupation conceived by woman is that of dinner taster. She is a product of Parisian refinement as yet unknown in this country. She spends a part of each day in visiting houses and tasting the dishes intended for dinner. She suggests improvement, and shows the cook new ways of preparing dishes. She has a large number of patrons and she rides in a cab. Of course, she is a skilled cook, and she charges liberally for her services. It is questionable, however, whether the American housewife would take kindly to such an invader of the household, and possibly the pioneer in such an occupation in this country would find it accompanied by vexatious trials.—New York Sun.

THE PHYLLOXERA.

The phylloxera made its appearance in the south of France about the year 1856, and destroyed a great many vineyards before its presence was discovered. One of the first victims whose vineyard was destroyed and rooted up in 1867 replanted another part of his estate the following winter. In order to thoroughly test the phylloxera evolving a theory from an impoverished soil, he divided the ground to be planted in three different parts of equal size, and as much as possible containing the same quality of soil. Each plot was planted with the same kind of vine and received the same treatment even after, with the only difference that each lot of vines was planted on a different scale. One was planted 4x4, or four feet every way, the other 6x6, or six feet every way, the third one planted 10x10, or ten feet every way. The whole vineyard was treated alike for 13 years afterward, well worked, and heavily manured periodically. In 1880 a commission from the French Vinegrowers' Association was sent to that district to inspect the vineyards in connection with the phylloxera. The translation of the official report of the said vineyard runs as follows: "When we arrived at the estate of Mr. X in the Department du Gard, and had been introduced by Mr. B, Mr. X received us in a most kindly manner, showing us all round the vineyard, kindly supplying us with any information we required. This vineyard which is divided into three equal parts, had been planted about 13 years, after having been destroyed by the phylloxera in 1867. Each part was planted on a different scale. One was planted 4x4, another 6x6, and the third 10x10. Each of them has been well worked, well and regularly manured every three years since they have been planted. The vines in the first part, planted 4x4, are nearly all dead, except a few round the rows along the roads; those in the second, planted 6x6, are still all alive, but look very sickly, and Mr. X told us that the grapes he had gathered from them the last few years did not pay his expenses, and if it had not been for the hope he stil had in curing them he should have rooted them up long ago. The vines in the space 10x10 were growing luxuriantly and were bending under the weight of their fruit. With the help of Mr. X we dug up, ourselves, vine roots in several places in the different parts of the vineyard and we found that they were pretty well all alike, covered with insects. But roots from the wide plantation did not seem to be affected by their presence, while the roots from the other parts were all more or less advanced in decomposition."—Jas. McLean in the Napa Register.

GOVERNMENT FOOD TESTS.

The Royal Baking Powder Declared Superior to All Others.

The fact as to which is the best Baking Powder in all respects, would seem to be established beyond question by official tests.

Prof. H. A. Mott, when employed by the U. S. Government to analyze the various baking powders of the market to determine which was the best and most economical, after an extended investigation, reported in favor of the Royal, and it was adopted for government use.

Prof. Mott has continued his examinations of baking powders, and affirms it as his deliberate judgment, arrived at after thorough research and careful examination of the principal brands of the market, that the Royal is superior to every other. Prof. Mott, in his report, says:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the U. S. Government.

"I will go still further and state that, because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public."

You feel faint and weak in the stomach—no appetite. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Taken for a Crank.

A semi-fiendish delight often seems to possess people of strong nerves in sneering at those with weak ones. The irritability of the nervous hypochondriac is ridiculed as natural ill temper. The very genuine and distressing symptoms from which he suffers are made light of. "He" or "she is a crank!" is the cheerful sort of sympathy with which the nervous invalid meets from the unfeeling and the thoughtless. At the same time no complaint is more defined and real; none has a more easily explainable origin when it is chronic. Imperfect digestion and assimilation are always accompanied by nervous ability and anxiety. Build up the powers of assimilation and digestion with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and nervous symptoms, sick headaches and a generally feeble condition of the system are remedied. Remember that fearful ravages are produced by the la grippe among weakly, nervous people. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters cures it, and prevents malaria, rheumatism and kidney complaint.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is superior to all other preparations claiming to be blood-purifiers. First of all, because the principal ingredient used in it is the extract of genuine Honduras sarsaparilla root, the variety richest in medicinal properties. Also, because the yellow dock, being raised expressly for the Company, is always fresh and of the very best kind. With equal discrimination and care, each of the other ingredients are selected and compounded. It is because it is always the same in appearance, flavor, and effect, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed. It is, therefore, the most economical blood-purifier in existence. It makes food nourishing, work pleasant, sleep refreshing, and life enjoyable. It searches out all impurities in the system and expels them harmlessly by the natural channels. AYER'S Sarsaparilla gives elasticity to the step, and imparts to the aged and infirm, renewed health, strength, and vitality.

Cures Catarrh

THE Superior Medicine

MISCELLANEOUS.

MRS. GRAHAM'S

CUCUMBER and ELDER FLOWER CREAM.

Is not a cosmetic in the sense in which that term is popularly used, but permanently beautifies. It creates a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind, and prevents sun burns and freckles, and blackheads will not come while you use it. It cleanses the face far better than soap and water, nourishes and builds up the skin tissues and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of the skin that you had when a little girl. Every lady, young or old ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady, and that permanently. It contains no acid, powder or alkali and is as harmless as dew and as nourishing to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00, at all druggists and hair-dressers, or at Mrs. Gervaise Graham's establishment, 192 Post Street San Francisco, where she treates ladies for all blemishes of the face and figure. Ladies at a distance treated by letter. Send stamp for her little book "How to be Beautiful."

SAMPLE BOTTLE mailed free to any lady on receipt of 10 cents in stamps to pay for postage and packing. Lady agents wanted.

Henry T. Tucker has been appointed by Governor Markham a director of the Sonoma and Marin Fair Association.

Rev. John Williams of Napa College will preach in the M. E. Church to-morrow (Sunday) at 11:30 A. M and 7:30 P. M. All are cordially invited to attend.

There is no excuse for any man to appear in society with a grizzly beard since the introduction of Buckingham's Dye, which colors a natural brown or black.

A one-story frame building is being erected on Napa street, a few doors east of the Postoffice, by Wm. Ellis, tinsmith and plumber, who will be ready for business next week.

Mrs. W. M. Cavanaugh of New York city has been appointed administratrix of the estate of her mother Mrs. M. E. Overton, who died recently at her home near Glen Ellen.

A young mother with a six week's old babe was this week received at the Feeble Minded Home. The poor young creature had been cruelly deserted by her husband for being weak minded.

The lecture given last Wednesday evening at Weyl's Hall on the story of Ben Hur was well attended by a large and appreciative audience. The lecture was very interesting and well delivered.

Notice to creditors in the matter of the Wm. Alexander estate appears in this issue. The administrator is John Alexander, a brother of deceased. Robt. A. Poppe of this place is the attorney for the estate.

An undertaking on appeal has been filed in the Superior Court in the case of Martha C. Watriss vs. E. Read. These parties have been engaged for years in a land suit which ought to have been settled by arbitration long ago.

For all derangements of the throat and lungs Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the speediest and most reliable remedy. Even in the advanced stages of Consumption, this wonderful preparation affords great relief, checks coughing, and induces sleep.

There will be two public auction sales to day at 2 o'clock. The firm of P. Balletti and R. Quartaroli will sell out their entire stock of groceries, clothing, etc. to the highest cash bidder. A house and lot belonging to Lewis Adler will also be sold. G. W. Sparks will conduct both sales.

The Union Hotel, under Mr. Zeller's management is one of the best country hotels in the State. The bar and tables are supplied with the best the market affords Trout fishing near at hand. The climate is unsurpassed and all who make the Union Hotel their home will be well treated. +

Mrs. Thomas Bell of San Francisco is the owner of the Drummond place near Glen Ellen, where she has recently built a fine cottage and barn. Last year 25,000 gallons of wine were made on this place. Mrs. Bell has also purchased 2,500 acres adjoining the Drummond tract which extends four miles up Nun's Canyon.

Cheap for cash—For sale at Badger's, Agua Caliente—A good express wagon, open buggy, new and second-hand harness, saddles, gridles, halters, etc., stoves. Also furniture, beds and bedding. Best curled hair mattresses made to order. A new bed and mattress for $3.00. Staple groceries and general merchandise.

The weather the past week has been quite warm the thermometer registering between 80 to 90 degrees in the shade. In consequence all kinds of vegetation is making a remarkable growth. With light showers of rain during the month of April and no heavy frosts, a splendid crop of all kinds of cereals and fruits is assured in this valley.

Julius Fochetti and M. F. Turley of this place have opened a blacksmith shop in Glen Ellen. The new firm will also keep on hand a good stock of all kinds of agricultural implements. Mr. Fochetti is one of Sonoma's enterprising blacksmiths and successful business men, which is a sure guarantee that the new firm will prosper where others have eked out a bare living. See advertisement in another column.

ANOTHER SONOMA VALLEY ENTERPRISE.

An Electric Railway from the Center of Town to Tide Water at Embarcadero.

S. Schocken of this place has on foot a scheme which when carried out will prove of great advantage to both town and valley. For some time past he has been contemplating the building of a line of horse cars for freight and passenger traffic from his basalt block quarries north of town to Embarcadero, the head of navigation on Sonoma creek, a distance of six miles.

Being convinced that such a line will pay a fair interest on the investment, he will shortly take steps to secure right of way between the two points.

It is the intention of the gentleman to operate the railway with horse power as a starter, and if the road will justify it he then intends to convert the line into an electric railway.

As is well known, the Schocken basalt block quarries at this place are the most extensive in the State, the supply of rock, which is the best paving material in the world, being practically inexhaustable. It is claimed that a railway reaching from his quarries to tide water, with schooner service to San Francisco, will enable him to land his blocks in the metropolis at a much cheaper rate than can be done by any other basalt block contractor in the State. Under the new plan it is estimated that blocks can be landed in San Francisco as cheap as they can be hauled into Sonoma under the present plan, which entails a heavy cost for horses, harness, wagons and the wages of teamsters.

When the new railway is in operation between 200 and 300 blockmakers will be given employment in the basalt block quarries of Sonoma in addition to those already employed.

Now that millionaires Senator John P. Jones and Senator Jas. G. Fair own large landed interests bordering on Sonoma creek it is certain that an appropriation will be asked for and voted by Congress to dredge out and improve the navigation of that stream, thus giving the people of Sonoma Valley competition by both rail and water to the chief mart of the Pacific Coast.

This railway project to tide water is only a forerunner of other important enterprises that are bound to follow in the wake of the coming into this valley as a field of investment of the great mining kings, Senators Jones and Fair.

The Senator Fair Ranch.

Three schooner loads of lumber have arrived this week at Hauto's landing at Embarcadero, consigned to the Senator Fair ranch near that place, the first of a series of shipments that will be made for the purpose of erecting new buildings on the Senator's new purchase. Many costly improvements will be made on the ranch the coming spring and summer, and it is the Senator's object to make his stock farm one of the leading one's of California, with headquarters near Embarcadero.

Death of a Pioneer Lady.

Mrs. Martha C. Watriss died at the home of her son, Franklin Watriss, near Agua Caliente last Sunday, at the ripe old age of 81 years, 10 months and 20 days. The deceased came to California in the early fifties and had resided in Sonoma Valley for thirty years. Her funeral took place Tuesday, and was largely attended, the remains being interred in Mountain Cemetery.

At Fountainville, the mystic settlement near Santa Rosa that has caused Miss Chevaillier so much tribulation, on the 27th ultimo. Thomas Lake Harris, King of that community, was wedded to Mrs. Jane LeWaring, for thirty years one of his disciples. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Shepherd. The groom is 68 and the bride 64. They are said to have admittted that this ceremony was a mere formality, a concession to misguided public opinion and to stop the flow of scandal. It is claimed that his true wife, known as "Mother Lily" resides in heaven, where he occasionally visits her. By her he has within a few years had two children, both of whom are doing missionary work in the lower regions. Vive la——? —Petaluma Courier.

THE PLAZA IMPROVEMENT.

An Innovation on the Customs of the Old Town.

The Plaza will be improved and cultivated next week. The young trees planted last year are looking well, while those set out by ex-City Trustees Manuel and Lawrence some five years ago, have made a fine growth.

With a few additional improvements, such as the building of a new City Hall to take the place of the horrible looking structure now used for that purpose, and the completion of the fence surrounding our eight-acre Plaza, and the planting of more shrubbery, our public park will be one of the finest in Northern California. So far the Plaza has been of very little expense to the city. A few years ago several hundred dollars was raised by a few public-spirited citizens for the benefit of the same and last year Mrs. Robt. C. Johnson donated $250 for the same purpose, which was expended under direction of the City Trustees. Notwithstanding this outside aid there are people in this town who are continually kicking against any money being spent by the city on this much-needed improvement. They say we don't want no Plaza. It is too large for the town, and they don't see of what earthly use it is any how. All such have no love for the beautiful. They are selfish and sordid-minded and are not in the least cut out to live among civilized and progressive people. These growlers say: "Well, Sonoma has got along without improving its Plaza for the last fifty years and we don't see any sense in improving it now." Of course not, for any kind of a new improvement or enterprise sets them almost into convulsions because, you know, it is an innovation on the customs of the old town. If these people are to have the say, Sonoma would be kept right in the old rut which has for so many years made the town the laughing stock of visitors and kept capital out of our midst.

Lenten Regulations.

Archbishop P. W. Riordan, has issued the following regulations for Lent 1892, Archdiocese of San Francisco:

1. All the faithful who have completed their twenty-first year are, unless legitimately dispensed, bound to observe the fast of Lent.
2. All days of Lent, Sunday excepted, are fast days of obligation on one meal.
3. By dispensation, granted August 3d, 1887, for ten years, Flesh Meat is allowed as the principal meal on all days of Lent, except Wednesdays, Fridays, Ember Saturday and the Saturday of Holy week
4. The use of Flesh Meat and Fish is forbidden at the same meal, even on Sundays.
5. At the collation it is permitted to use bread, all kinds of fruits, vegetables and fish, and, by dispensation granted February 9th, 1887, for ten years, the use of butter, cheese, milk and eggs is also permitted.
6. The use of Lard is permitted in preparing food on all days throughout the year.
7. When the principal meal cannot be taken at mid-day it may be taken in the evening, and the collation in the morning.
8. All persons under twenty-one years or over sixty years of age, those who are engaged in hard labor, the sick and convalescent, and those who cannot fast without injury to their health, are exempt from the obligation of fasting.
9. Those who are not bound to fast may use Flesh Meat more than once each day, on which its use is permitted.
10. Those who have any reasonable doubt as to their obligation to fast or abstain should consult their Confessor.
11. The time for fulfilling the precept of Easter Communion extends in the Archdiocese from the first Sunday of Lent to the end of the Octave of Pentecost.

P. W. RIORDAN,
Archbishop of San Francisco.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to clense the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

Feeding the Crowd at the World's Fair.

The visitors to the exposition will be fed. The study of how and where to feed the crowds at the big fair has been an incident of the work of the construction department for the past six weeks, and is as complete as possible. Food will be served in ten of the principal buildings in restaurants, private dining rooms and over lunch counters. There will be three characteristic lunch counters, twenty-seven principal restaurants or cafes, and in connection with them 115 dining rooms.

The supplies will issue from seventeen complete hotel kitchens, manned by an army of more than 1,000 waiters, cooks and scullions. The dining room will occupy above five acres of space, and it will be possible for above 3,000 people to sit at table at one time.—Chicago Woman's News.

If the Groom Washed His Hands.

In certain parts of Africa a custom once prevailed (and may still) of the intended bride bringing a bowl or calabash of water for the bridegroom to wash his hands in. If he condescended to do so she then and there acknowledged him as her lord and master, and moreover drank the water as a proof of her love and fidelity, and cases have been known where a copious shedding of tears of joy and thankfulness accompanied the latter act.—San Francisco Examiner.

A Former Resident of Sonoma in Mexico.

J. W. Sharpe, well-known in this valley, where he farmed for a couple of years, but who is now the proprietor of the leading American hotel in Monterey, Mexico, where Mrs. Sharpe and little daughter are now on their way to join him, writes under date of February 24th to the editor of this paper as follows:

"Dear old Sonoma! After a pretty general ramble all over the world I can think of but few as pleasant spots and I treasure many a kind rememberance of my short sojourn there, and a few years hence, when I can thoroughly make up my mind to settle down to rural life, my first attempt being only an experiment, I think it is among the possibilities that I may again become a resident of your county.

This country has wonderful possibilities to investors, and I predict that inside of five years it will be the most talked of portion of the North American Continent. Five years ago Monterey was a sleepy Mexican town. To-day she is a bustling American city, with three lines of railroad, good street car service, electric lights, telephone, etc. Of course American capital and enterprise has accomplished it, and the end is not yet. Mexico is undoubtedly the richest country in the world in natural resources. With a climate equal if not superior to California and soil fully as productive, where the coffee plant, bananna and lemon and orange flourish equally with all the deciduous fruits that make California so noted; where all the cereals produce with an abundance unknown in the States; with her mountains full of the richest ores in the world, all it lacks seemingly, to make this one of the most noted of countries is enterprise and capital and both generally go where they are needed.

We have about 2000 Americans here, all the different enterprises being conducted by them. In the past three years over six million dollars have been invested in smelters alone, and when all are completed Monterey will be the greatest smelting center in America. The ores here are nearly all low grade but they are so easily and cheaply mined and found in such bulk that they pay immense profits.

A Brave Lad.

While a party of boys and girls, ranging in age from 10 to 17 years, were enjoying a boat ride in the creek near Mrs. E. A. Rogers' place, Saturday afternoon, an accident occured which called forth a display of nerve and pluck unusual in a lad of fifteen years. One of the girls, whose name is withheld by request, fell from the boat where the water was six or seven feet in depth. The fright occasioned by her peril caused her to faint, and she sank below the surface. The limp and lifeless body was going down for the third time when Howard Rogers, aged fifteen, sprang into the water, and seized the garments of the young girl near the shoulder and swam with her to shore. The others were too frightened to render any assistance, and the saving of her life is due to the prompt and cool-headed action of young Rogers. Beyond a severe fright and a thorough drenching no serious consequences were entailed. The incident illustrates the importance of all boys learning to swim, and should point a moral as to the carelessness of parents in allowing children to engage in dangerous sport.—Santa Rosa Democrat.

A Timely Reminder.

An amusing travel story comes from Greece. A party of English tourists in search of the picturesque were being conducted over a very dangerous mountain pass, when, at a particularly dangerous part of the journey, where the narrow path led along the top of a precipitous precipice, the chief guide called a halt. "I have stopped you," said the man in question, in bad French, "because this is the very spot where, ten years ago, an Englishman who was being conducted by me fell over and was killed.

"I was arrested and condemned for my negligence to fifteen years' imprisonment. But I was released when I had served half that time in consequence of my good behavior in jail."—London Figaro.

When Pens Were First Used.

About the year 600 A. D. pens made of quills were introduced. This is shown by the fact that the word penna, a quill, is not found, it is claimed, in any work bearing an earlier date. Previous to that time the word calamus, signifying a reed, was exclusively employed as a designation for the vehicle used in transferring the ink to the parchment or other surface selected by the writers of that early age. Steel pens first came into use in 1803 and about twenty-two years later those composed of gold made their appearance. — Detroit Free Press.

Trees of Europe and North America.

Forest vegetation is much richer in North America than in Europe, and comprises 412 species, of which 176 are native to the Atlantic region, 106 to the Pacific, 10 are common to both, 46 to the Rocky mountain region, and 74 are tropical species near the coast of Florida, as against 158 species in Europe. Six North American species of forest trees—the Judas tree, persimmon, hackberry, plane tree, hop hornbeam and chesnut are also indigenous in Europe, all now growing there naturally south of the Alps.—New York Press.

THE SINGER'S CHANTER.

The Words Which the Choir Sang Tickled the Risibilities of One Man.

We have read about the newly impowered German tenor, who on an Easter morning electrified a "heavily mortgaged congregation" by singing over and over again, "He will raise ze debt, he will raise ze debt in ze twinkling of an eye." But the following musical incident is related by one who recently attended a fashionable church. The choir started with a reference to the lilies of the field, and after singing the changes on the word "consider" until all idea of its connection was lost, they began to tell the congregation, through the mouth of the soprano, that "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed."

Straightway the soprano was reenforced by the basso, who declared that Solomon was most decidedly and emphatically not arrayed—was not arrayed. Then the alto ventured it as her opinion that Solomon was not arrayed, when the tenor, without a moment's hesitation, sang as if it had been officially announced, that "he was not arrayed." Then, when the feelings of the congregation had been harrowed up sufficiently and our sympathies all aroused for poor Solomon, whose numerous wives allowed him to go about in such a fashion, the choir at length, in a most cool and composed manner, informed us that the idea they intended to convey was that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed "like one of these"—these what?

So long a time had elapsed since they sang of the lilies that the thread was entirely lost, and by "these" one naturally concluded that the choir was designated. Arrayed like one of these? We should think not, indeed! Solomon in a Prince Albert or a cutaway coat? No, most decidedly. Solomon in the very zenith of his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

Despite the experience of the morning, the hope still remained that in the evening a sacred song might be sung in a manner that would not excite our risibilities or leave the impression that we had been listening to a case of blackmail. But again off went the nimble soprano with the very laudable though startling announcement, "I will wash." Straightway the alto, not to be outdone, declared that she "would wash." And the tenor, finding it to be the thing, warbled forth that he would wash.

Then the deep chested basso, as though calling up his fortitude for the plunge, bellowed forth the stern resolve that he also would wash. Next a short interlude on the organ, strongly suggestive of the escaping steam or the splash of the waves, after which the choir individually and collectively asserted the firm, unshaken resolve that they would wash. At last they solved the problem by stating that they proposed to "wash their hands in innocency.—Cathedral Chimes.

Some Examination Answers.

The following recent answers to questions at examinations are amusing and genuine. It must be added that the age of the examinees was not exceedingly mature:

Question—How many motions has the earth? What are they?

Answers—The earth has two motions, one in the morning and one at night.

The earth has two motions, annual round the sun, and its daily motions on its own axis.

The earth has two motions; it is 205,000,000 miles round, and it is 202,000,000 miles square.

It has four motions; its daily, around the sun, and its nightly, around the earth.

The earth has two motions, one on the sun and one on the moon.—London Tablet.

Man Is a "Kicker."

Nine fathers out of ten, if asked as to what occupation they hope their sons to follow, will say, "Well, he won't follow my business, if I can help it." The only inference to be drawn is that a majority of men are engaged in callings not to their liking, either because there is not any money in it or because it is not agreeable to them. That is the natural conclusion, but the real fact of the matter is, the average man is a "kicker;" he wants something other than that which he has and, without making any especial effort to meet the desire, grumbles at what he has. Meanwhile, things move on as usual, and once in a great while a satisfied man is revealed.—Detroit Free Press.

A Story of Beecher.

A good story of Henry Ward Beecher is told by Whitelaw Reid. "When Mr. Beecher had avowed his faith in the advantages of having women speak in church, and at the next prayer meeting a prosy sister had taken up all the time to no purpose, and at the next had done the same, and at the next the same, and at the fourth had been, if possible, more tedious and oppressive than ever before, Mr. Beecher rose, with solemn air, as she took her seat, and observed, in argumentative tone, 'Nevertheless, brethren and sisters, I believe in women speaking in prayer meeting.'"—New York Ledger.

The money is yours, and the misery is yours; and until you are willing to believe, and spend the one for the relief of the other, they will stay so. John H. Foster, 1122 Brown Street, Philadelphia, says: "My wife is a little Scotch woman, thirty years of age and of a naturally delicate disposition. For five or six years past she has been suffering from Dyspepsia. She became so bad at last that she could not sit down to a meal but she had to vomit it as soon as she had eaten it.
